EVC News

Dear EVC stakeholders:

We have some big announcements in this newsletter including a new website launch, a 24-page article about the region, and another early win for the SLO County Economic Strategy, and more.

New EVC website goes live!

EVC is excited to announce the launch of a completely new web site. The content is more informative, better organized and includes resources for local businesses and anyone considering starting a business in, or moving a business to, SLO County. We look forward to your feedback and contributions as the website evolves.

The construction of this state-of-the-art website was thanks to a tremendous effort by Dennis Clevenger and Nolan Henderson of CLEVER CONCEPTS, in collaboration with Johnny Hanshew and Thomas Reiss KRAFTWERK DESIGN. A special thanks to Jeff Wade of CENTRAL COAST MARKETING, and Kaila Anderson of the EVC. The above companies are also EVC sponsors.

We especially wish to thank Michael Silacci of AT&T and the AT&T Foundation for a grant for this project. This has enabled the EVC to provide better information and resources to the community.

U.S. Airways in-flight magazine

As was announced in the February EVC newsletter, for the month of April U.S. Airways in-flight magazine features a 24 page article about SLO County. Go to the EVC home page and click featured story link or click the links below. We have bridged the gap from print to Internet by including a QR code in our advertisement, so we hope that many readers will visit the site from their Smart phones. The company estimates 3.2 million readers per month. A special thanks to Mary Verdin of VERDIN MARKETING INK, one of the EVC's newest sponsors, for the creative work on the EVC advertisement. We hope this article will gain the attention to SLO County as a good place to do business.

County Process Improvement Committee: An early win for the economic strategy

Thanks to the leadership of County Supervisor Frank Mecham, below is an article describing a first-ever task-force to help improve the county's planning and building process by bringing local business leaders to the table to create solutions and recommendations. Called the PROCESS IMPROVEMENT COMMITTEE, the task force includes several local business leaders who will soon make public announcements on their accomplishments. Both Supervisors Frank Mecham and Adam Hill have co-chaired the Economic Strategy Project, now in the implementation phase. Our consultants inform us that this type of involvement by County leadership to help our local economy has not been seen much around the nation.

EVC partners with SOFTEC for a solar energy business event

EVC and Softec are pleased to announce a partnership to hold an informative event on the evening of Wednesday, April 27th in Pismo Beach at the Ventana Grill to help locals learn about business opportunities in the solar energy industry. A panel of experts from REC / AEE Solar, SunPower and First Solar-all EVC sponsors-will be speaking on topics that can result in business for local companies. Supervisor Adam Hill will also be speaking about his views about the role of renewable energy in the county and how it impacts the economy. See the announcement below with details for registering.

 Board of Supervisors
 County of San Luis Obispo

As I'm sure you are all aware, the County of San Luis Obispo, in collaboration with the Economic Vitality Corporation and private industry joined together to establish the first county-wide economic strategy. I was pleased to co-chair this effort with my colleague Supervisor Adam Hill. We sat in and listened to opportunities, challenges and means to address the challenges from well over 125 business leaders that would assist business with their visions.

SOCIAL MEDIA GETS DOWN TO BUSINESS

By June McIvor
 Sinsheimer Juhnke Lebens & McIvor, LLP
 March 2011

Wikipedia defines "social media" as "media for social interaction." However, as any good marketer knows, any place where two or more people congregate is ripe territory for business. It didn't take long for businesses to see the value of social media as a means of communicating their messages to broad and targeted audiences. But as businesses increasingly use social media platforms for commercial purposes, new areas of risk and liability are encountered. This article will explore some of the issues that companies need to keep in mind as they navigate social media.

Kraftwerk Design Inc. | $1,000

We pride ourselves as a company not limited to design. Or a message. We know it's the whole that counts. It begins with identifying what sets a company apart from its peers, and why what it sells... sells well. And then thoughtfully conveying this to the world in a profound and effective way. Approaching brands from this perspective is not only smart, but essential for their strength and success.

SOLAR PROJECT COULD SECURE MILLIONS FOR AILING CALIFORNIA ECONOMY

By Chris Meehan
Clean Energy Authority
March 22, 2011

Studies by the University of California economics department found that two large-scale solar project would inject a total of $732 million into the San Luis Obispo County, Calif., economy. The two plants, 250-megawatt California Valley Solar Ranch and the 550-megawatt Topaz Solar Farm, are being considered by the county now. The projects, when complete, will provide power for roughly 260,000 homes in California.

BIZ BUZZ: AEROMECH ENGINEERING: LOOK MA - NO PILOT!

By Julia Hickey
the Tribune

March 2, 2011

AeroMech Engineering Inc., an aircraft defense engineering and manufacturing firm, has opened its new corporate headquarters and manufacturing facility in a sprawling warehouse complex at 125 Venture Drive in San Luis Obispo. On the city's south side, the roughly 116,500-square-foot, orange building is highly visible off Highway 101 to the east - but only engineers there are fully privy to the details of what is made within: unmanned aircraft that assist the military in surveillance missions and the computer systems that guide them.

THE TRIBUNE

A mostly white population that expanded in the North and South County is the picture of San Luis Obispo County's population as revealed by the 2010 Census. This is according to the first data for California in the constitutionally mandated decennial census, which was released Tuesday by the Census Bureau. In the past decade, the county's population grew by 9.3 percent, or about 23,000 people. That nearly mirrors the state's growth rate. In just 10 years, the county population grew from 246,681 to 269,637.
